HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

THE HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

The history of the Oakland City Public School really begins with the erection of the first part of the building in 1867 by a local stock company. The chief donors were: Col. J. W. Cockrum, $1,000; J. W. Hargrove, $1,000; Rev. Leright Houchins, $1,000; J. W. Cockrum, $1,000; Dr. W. J. McGowan, $1,000; Col. W. M. Cockrum, $1,000. Many others gave from $25 to $100; the total cost of the building was $8,000. It was built in the interest of higher education and was named the "Oakland Normal Institute." This was a gigantic undertaking for the people at the time, but the cause was a great and worthy one and the success of the institution was a fitting tribute to those who gave the idea birth.

Oakland City at once became a center of educational interest and at one time the school trained teachers for the greater part of Southern Indiana.

The first year of the school was in 1868 and was taught by Prof. Lee Tomlin. He was the man for the place and performed an invaluable work. For two or three spring terms he was assisted by Prof. W. H. Vane, of Ohio, and by J. T. Ervin, of Patoka, Indiana. After this Lee Tomlin and Dr. G. C. Mason were associated as principals in conducting a Normal Institute. Students came from all the surrounding counties and from other states, and the spring term of 1875 had 138 pupils, 90 of whom were teachers.

After G. C. Mason came Prof. Z. T. Emerson, who is to be remembered for his thorough and efficient teaching.

In 1878 the building was sold to M. V. Lovett, township trustee, for $4,000 and was used for township and town schools up to May, 1957.

In 1883 the town was incorporated and the school building became the property of the town. On account of the rapid increase in population, two years later it was necessary to build a four-room addition at the cost of $4,000. Then in 1893 a second addition was erected at a cost of $8,000.

The terms of school up to 1893 were never over six or seven months in length, so each spring the High School classes were continued in a tuition school, and those desiring to graduate could complete the course by this arrangement. The first class graduated from the high school in 1887.

In 1893 the term was lengthened to eight months and in 1894 the school was commissioned. At that time only three years were required to complete the course, but another year was added in 1902, and in 1903 the school was commissioned under the new law.

During the years 1908 and 1909 several rooms were remodeled and concrete wall and walk built around the entire school ground. Latrine toilets were installed in the basement; the efficiency of the heating plant was greatly increased by encasing all the pipes with asbestos, and many old desks in the rooms were replaced with the latest school furniture.

In 1915 it was found that there was not sufficient room for the vast number of students, and it was necessary to erect a new building at the cost of $16,000. It is located just west of the old building and on the same lot. It was built on the new plan and had all modern improvements and was connected with the old building by means of a covered bridge.

In 1916 the six-six plan was adopted and the Senior High School occupied the new building, while the Junior High School remained in the old part.

The schools were operated on the six-six plan until the year 1936. By that time the high school enrollment had increased to such an extent that additional building facilities were highly desirable. Therefore following the trend throughout the country, the schools of the town of Oakland City and Columbia Township were consolidated and all rural schools of the township were abandoned. A PWA grant of $42,900 was obtained from the federal government which, together with approximately $45,000 raised by bonding the consolidated unit, made possible the construction of a new high school building costing $98,000.

Due to the construction of the new school building the upper five grades of the school were housed in the Cronbach Building in order that all pupils of the town and township might be cared for during the first year following consolidation.

At the beginning of the 1937 and 1938 school year the high school and eighth grade moved into the new high school building located on South Franklin Street. The students were happy in their new building located on an eight acre tract of land, six acres of which were being developed into a modern athletic field. An addition to the plant consisted of a floodlighting system for the athletic field, installed at a cost of approximately $2,500.

Beginning in 1936-1937 the schools were operated on a seven-five plan, with the sixth and seventh grades departmentalized and operated much as a junior high school is conducted.

The year 1936 and 1937 also marked the beginning of bus transportation for all pupils of the township outside the corporate limits of Oakland City.

During the years 1936 to 1952, enrollments continued to increase and both the elementary and high school buildings became crowded. The enrollment at the elementary building, grades 1 to 7, passed the 600 mark and the enrollment at the high school building passed the 320 mark. The total enrollment during the 1949-1950 school year passed the 1000 mark.

Due to a shortage of Industrial Arts teachers during World War II, the high school Industrial Arts Department was closed. The increased enrollments in the other departments since that time prevented the reopening of that department up to 1952. One of the greatest needs in 1952 was a new, modernly equipped high school shop.

In 1951 the last of the bonded indebtedness on the high school building was paid off and the School Town and School Township were debt free as of January 1, 1952.

In March of 1953, under the leadership of school board members H. D. Mason, Orville Richardson, and Ira M. Wilder, steps were taken toward the construction of a new elementary school building. Two tracts of land, one consisting of 6.936 acres and the other consisting of 5.82 acres, located at the end of South Franklin St., and adjacent to the High School site were purchased from J. C. Troublefield and John H. Chappell, respectively, for the total sum of $7,255.20.

The Board, in October of 1953, employed Lester W. Routt of Vincennes as the architect to begin preparation of plans and specifications for a new elementary building to be located on the new site. In compliance with the law petitions were presented from residents of Columbia School Township and the School Town of Oakland City, asking the Board of School Trustees to form a School Building Holding Company in accordance with Chapter 273 of the Acts of 1947 of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana to provide a portion of the funds with which to build an adequate building. These petitions were turned over to the new Board of School Trustees which took office January 1, 1955. The new board consisted of Leland M. Morrison, Donald L. Mason, and Ira M. Wilder.

Building on the foundation laid by the previous board, the new Board quickly took the initiative in organizing the Oakland-Columbia School Bldg. Co., Inc., and in the issuing of bonds by the School Town of Oakland City and Columbia School Twp. in the sums of $48,000 and $47,000 respectively. The Oakland-Columbia School Building Co., after organizing, through its Directors Ray B. Hollis, Charles Barnard, Henry Fitch, Merle Barrett, and Ben Bean proceeded to issue bonds of the Bldg. Company in the sum of $630,000. The above sums of money together with cumulative building funds held by the two school corporations made possible the construction and equipment of a new building at a cost of approximately $930,000. The school corporation then contracted to lease that portion of the building constructed by the Oakland-Columbia School Bldg. Co., Inc. at an annual lease-rental cost of $37,500 until such time as the proceeds from the lease-rental shall have retired all bonds issued by the School Building Co.

The new building was occupied for the first time at the beginning of school year 1957-58 and the schools have operated since that date under a 5-3-4 plan of organization. The new structure brought about the following improvements in the educational program of the community:

1. Kindergarten as a part of the public school
2. Modern Classrooms, Kindergarten through 12
3. Modern Home Economics and Shop Departments
4. Modern Music facilities
5. A new library for elementary and high school
6. An art department
7. Cafeteria facilities
8. School Nurse and improved health facilities
9. Adequate playground space

On September 3, 1958, the Board sold at public auction the abandoned school property on Madison and Mulberry Sts. The successful bidder was Oakland City College and these former public school buildings were used for college classes.

In May 1962, the voters of Columbia Township along with the voters of the other townships in Gibson County, were to go to the polls and vote on a proposed plan calling for the abolition of all existing school corporations in Gibson County and reorganizing under one county-wide school corporation. If this proposed plan had been adopted by majority vote of the voters in the county, the control of all schools in Gibson County would have passed to a Board of School Trustees consisting of 7 members elected from seven school-board member districts by the voters of Gibson County.

The all-Gibson County School Corporation did not come to pass, however.

On January 1, 1965 the East Gibson School Corporation was organized. This was the result of a consolidation of three separate school units, Barton School Township, Center School Township, and School Town of Oakland City and Columbia School Township.

Mr. Waldo J. Wood taught in Oakland from 1926 to 1930. He was high school principal from 1930 to 1934 and served as Superintendent from September 1934 to June 14, 1967.

In the summer of 1967 construction was started on a new high school addition including a new gymnasium. This new high school was eventually named in honor of Mr. Wood.

ROUSH FIELD

By action of the School Trustees, concurred in by Student Council, the High School Athletic Field is to be known as "Roush Field" in honor of Oakland City's most outstanding professional athlete, Edd J. Roush, who in 1962 was voted into Baseball's Hall of Fame.

1. The bus driver shall keep his person neat and clean, and his deportment shall at all times be comparable to that of a teacher.

2. He shall be responsible for the supervision of pupils while in his bus to the same extent that a teacher is responsible for the supervision of the pupils while they are at school.

3. He shall not engage in political or other types of propaganda with the pupils or adults while carrying children to or from school.

The high schools in Indiana and in other states were granted permission to issue diplomas to boys who entered the armed forces between September 16, 1940 and December 18, 1946 who passed a series of tests known as the "General Educational Development Tests." These tests were given and marked by the United States Armed Forces Institute. It was felt that a boy should not be deprived of a diploma if his schooling was interrupted by enlistment or draft into the armed forces providing he could pass a series of tests covering information expected to be known by the average high school graduate. Boys receiving diplomas from Oakland City High School through this means are designated by the letters G.E.D. following their names.
